#RVAbreastfeeds is a Healthy Communities Action Team (HCAT) administered through Nurture, a nonprofit focused on improving the health and wellbeing of childbearing families through fitness, education, social support, and community engagement.

On September 26, 2019, the RVA Breastfeeding Symposium brought parents, healthcare and social service providers, and community members together to:

- Provide training on Ready, Set, BABY (RSB), an educational program developed by Carolina Global Breastfeeding Institute designed to counsel prenatal women about maternity care best practices and the benefits and management of breastfeeding.

- Encourage community members, organizations, hospitals and healthcare providers across the Richmond Metro Area to identify a shared vision for supporting breastfeeding and maternal health, particularly with regard to marginalized communities.

- Promote policy, systems, and environmental change regarding lactation and maternal health in our community.

Reflections from attendees:

“I appreciated the reflection questions at the beginning and how to recognize bias on the individual and systemic level.”

“The speakers were great. Also the handouts are very worthwhile (handouts in the packets and at the tables). The networking is a huge benefit.”

"As a brand new mom it was great to see and have a community of supporters behind me on my breastfeeding journey."

"It was great being surrounded by individuals passionate about maternal health."
